Epilepsy 20 Years. Cured by Dr. Miles' Nervine.

A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was an extensive, successful expert manufacturer of lumber products. Attacked with epilepsy, he was obliged to give up his business. The attacks came upon him most incopportunely. One time falling from a carriage, at another down stairs, and often in the street. Once he fell down a shaft in the mill, his injuries nearly proving fatal. Mr. Gallaher writes from Milwaukee, Feb. 15, %. A few years ago, Mr. L. W. Gallaher, was Gallaher, druggist at 191 Reed St., Milwaukee, gave me Dr. Miles' Restorativo Nervine, and I tried it with gratifying results. Have had but two fits since I began taking it. I am better now in every way than I have been in 20 years."

TO THE FARMERS.

Some Warning Words That Appeal to Patriotism.

MONETARY TRUST'S CIRCULAR

What Free Silver would Bring-Bryantem Instead of Bringing Relief to the Farmers Would Make Their Condition Worse-Men who are the Trustees of People of Modest Means and who are Fighting the Evil Tendencies of Wall Street Make a Strong Appeal.

The monetary trust, of 50 Broadway New York, has addressed the following circular to the farmers of America. It is not a message from Wall street, but from an institution entrusted with the money of "common peo-ple" throughout the country:

To the farmers of the United States: You and we are new in a crisis together. Because of this fact, we send you this message. We know nothing about farming. We have spent our lives in finance. You know how to follow the laws of nature in such manner that the earth is made to yield its products. There are other natural laws which must be obeyed, in finance, if the products of earth are to be advantageously sold, the value of your lands constantly improved, and prosperity developed in our mildst. The monetary trust is the trustee of many men of moderate means, located in all parts of the United States; and the institution was established to battle against the cvil elements of Wall street. No patriotic, thoughtful citizen would undertake a crusade against the better elements of Wall street. To do that would be acting like the insane farmer of Kansas who tried to search out and cut out the cords of his own heart. As wheat is gathered at Milwaukee or Chicago for redistribution interests of the country, representing those interests which are vital to the prosperity of American farms and equally vital to the prosperity of the genuine elements of Wall street, we are able to give an accurate understanding of the political and financial influences which have crushed us all down together.

In former years you received high prices for farm products, and at the same time you were paying high prices for farm products, and at the same time you were paying high prices for farm products, and at the same time you were paying high prices for farm roducts.

How Farmers Would Suffer.

At this critical juncture, because one political party boldly proclaims itself the enemy of society and hostile to exsetting laws and courts, capital is lit-erally frightened away from all enter-prises, and much cannot be lead at any rate of interest. If national calamity should elect Bryan, farm marigages could not be renewed on any terms, and could not be renewed on any would de-the selling price of farms would de-cline until they would not bring the the mortgages. The officers amount of the mortgages. The officers of this company have certain personal of this company have certain personal acquaintances who recently filanned to build beet sugar manufactories in Nebraska. Such manufactories would have given farmers in that locality a market for one new product and better home demand for all products; but capitalists are always timid, and they abandoned their plan when Bryanism developed.

Not long since, certain railroads were trying to secure money in Europe for improvements. The expenditure of that money in that state, for example, would have given Nebraska merchants a better business and Nebraska farmers a better home market. The foreigners were afraid that they would not

ers were atraid that they would not get back the same money. In exactly this way, money has been kept out of every locality in the United States. When funds are held in the clutch of suspicion and anxiety, we have stagnation, depression and suffering. Distrust locks up money in vaults. Mr. Bryan says there is "not money enough, gold is cornered." His ignorance of large finance is beyond conception. The business of the world is carried on by credit. The monetary trust, for example, is acting as trustee in business transactions, reaching a total of many million dollars. Its officers never see goffi. In financial circles, where gold is always in reach, and where men trust each other, gold is never wanted. Adjustments are made by checks, drafts and other instruments of credit. Therefore it is not more money that is needed; it is confidence. No matter how much money you have saved from farming, you will not loan it to the leaders of a mob. Money will always be scarce among men who incite riots. If you loan money fo an individual, you ascertain his moral character. If you invest money in a community, you study the moral tone of that community. Cowboy communities cannot borrow. If Bryan and other men, whose policles we fear, were placed in control, sensitive capitalists would never luvest money within their reach. If Nebraska will expel Bryanism and its representatives from the borders of the state, the rate of interest will find more buyers there, and farmers will find more buyers there, me enterpised in control, sensitive capitalists would never luvest money within their reach. to us when enterprises wilt in times of distrust and anxiety. Do you know why this country is not now in a period of prosperity? Such a period is long past due. Good times and bad dimes have followed each other alternately throughout all history. Some time ago a new period of prosperity began to unfold in Europe. England. France and Germany recovered from their depression long ago. Money now circulates freely in those countries, and confidence rules supreme in all the financial centres of the old world. We will tell you why this country has not emerged from depression, why farm products are kept down, and why our manufactories stand idle. There are certain fanates in this country who are as dangerous as criminals. There are some men who seem to dislike work, and leave their homes like Coxey, to march about in demonstration against law and order. There are other men like Debs, who try to get what they want by inciting riots. There are still others, like Altgeld, who propose to get possession of this government. Their candidate came to New York and held receptions here. As far as we know, outside of political circles, no individual of distinguished social position attended those receptions. As far as we are aware, not one man of really high grade who lives in New York City will vote for him. The reasons are not fersonal. Mr. Bryan is the front of a combination which includes the enemies of mankind. Sensitive men, with an eye single to the best good of their country must shun him.

Where He Looks for Votes

Bryan and his associates undertook to get possession of this government by relying upon the votes of disappointed citizens. They tempted men who are goaded by personal misfortune by promising them a new shuffle of values. They tempted one class of citizens to vote in a manner which would cheat the others, and asked all of us to join together to cheat the creditors of the mation. In the entire history of civilization, no more disreputable attempt was ever made to polson the morals and mutilate the good name of a prosperous people. As the issues of this campaign become clear in the public mind, business men will lose credit and private individuals will lose the respect of their associates if they favor Bryan. To this low level will become at last. Their plan was to catch the farmer vote. They do not seen to respect the judgment and integrity of farmers. Their candidate, parading his unblacked boots and coat, conspicuous for cheapness, travels across the country, crying aloud: "I est corn Bryan and his associates undertook his unblacked boots and coat, con-spicuous for cheapness, travels across the country, crying aloud: "I eat corn three times a day!" Does he take the farmers for fools? Does he imagine that men who understand the laws of nature, and how to conform to them, will fall to appreciate this cheap cloth-ing for the scarecrow which it is? "Vote for me," says this sycophant candidate. "I wear farmers' boots and eat corn."

and corn.

Was there ever such absence of dignity in a candidate for the presidency of this great republic? Was there ever such abject and shameful humiliation as this silly pretense reveals? Sensible men dress in accordance with their pursuits. When farmers become presidents they do not appear in working clothes. As fishermen spin a sliver spoon to, catch stupid victims, this candidate tries to decelve farmers by promising sliver legislation. Forsooth he will advance prices with a sliver enactment. All men who think clearly understand that legislation cannot advance values. Legislation can do no more than give upright men the fruits of their honorable efforts. No legislature will ever assemble, no Congress will ever convene, which will cause one acre of land to produce more wheat or sustain the price of sliver to the value of a single penny. The man who travels across this country preaching that sliver free coinage will improve the moral tone and comfort of our people is a quack, a charlatan. He is worse than that. He is the enemy of the public good. He is a reckless wanderer in the fields of finance, burning barns and destroying homes. He is teaching men to rebel against frugality, industry and virtue, in order to revel in riot, regudiation and crime.

It is with the coppe at large as with each individual. There is but one road to prosperity, and that is the plain path of industry and honor. It is with nations as with individuals. None of us can steal, all of us must earn. Bryanism would not advance the price of anything, except the price which all would have to pay for the use of money. There is no export merchant in New York so bereft of reason that he would expect Europe to pay more for a cargo of wheat from a country which is on a sliver basis than it would pay for a similar cargo from a country which is on a sliver basis than it would pay for a similar cargo from a country on a gold basis, It is true that our government could create a legal tender money of low value, but it cannot sustain the value of pr

Even now, every farm in the United States would sell for less cash because of the Bryan combination, and for the same reason every mortgage now rests more heavily on its farm.

An Untruthful Statement.

They tell you that these hard times have hurt those who live upon farms and have hurt those who live upon farms more than these engaged in other pursuits. We assure you that the contrary is true. Thousands of men in business and financial circles have seen the entire savings of a life wrenched from their trembling hands. No day has dawned upon American farms when the family did not sit down to its accustomed meals, but there are thousands of men, heretofore prosperous in the world of business and finance, who do not know to-day from what source will come their meals for to-morrow. In this land of infinite crops no man starves upon a farm. Such suffering is confined to cities and manufacturing districts. The shipwrecks of business have left thousands of families stranded. Some of them are supported by relatives; some of them by daughters who work in your offices; and many, alast very many, would hand out their hearts in gratitude if they had the conforts and shelter of a humble farm.

No class of men can escape suffering when the nation groans in pain, We cannot prosper unless we do. One class of citizens cannot be benefitted at the expense of another class. the vaults, and our country will move forward through a period of prosperity greater than any of us has realized before. During that period the prices of Farmers of the United Statest! We recognize that the sound pillars of this republic rests upon your lands. They have no other foundation. We recognize the greater fact, that if this country is to have a happy future, it must find support in your nobility of character.

All thinking recognize that your children are the most important product which you and your farms give to the country. The farmer boy is the coming man of business, the coming financier, the coming statesman. Without such canstant re-enforcement our country would soon fall into decay. You are now called upon to vote so that those children will grow up in the atmosphere of honesty. Only a few years ago, the citizens of this republic were made to pour forth-blood and money, in order that all our farms should remain under one government, and in order that our broad domain should be consecrated to the principle that every child born on these lands shall have even chance with every other child to make the most of its existence. Now mother crisis has forced us into cruel loss, in order that we may retain the honor and credit of the country we have saved. While we undergo this sacrifice, let us consecrate our farms, our offices, and our homes to the common good and give this republic our farms, our offices, and our homes to the common go the country we have saved. While wo our farms, our offices, and our homes to the common good and give this republic a new birth. In such event, on the morning of the 4th day of next Novemmorning of the 4th day of next November, a brighter sunshine will burst upon American farms than ever fell before. On that day a new era of prosperity will be inaugurated, which will constantly unfold its blessings in our midst. Out of that new prosperity you will soon regain those property values which Bryanism has detroyed, and on that glorious morning rise with the sun exultant in a happy thought that your children will grow up with a better environment of morals; and will finally receive a larger inheritance of national honor.
